Morris (MN), Vereinigte Staaten –

Superior Industries, Inc., a US-based manufacturer and global supplier of bulk material processing and handling systems, proudly announces that industry veteran, Eric Gavin, has been hired for a newly created business development role in the company's construction management division.

Gavin comes to Superior after most recently being employed as a construction project manager for Dumas Mining. Before that he was an operations manager for the engineering firm, Meridiam Partners, and held several positions with Harrison Western, an industrial construction company. Gavin cut his teeth in our beloved market with Aggregates Industries, where he served as a plant manager for operations throughout the Denver metropolitan area.

“Eric's background and energy fit perfectly into this new position and we're excited to watch him and the entire construction management team grow and succeed,” says Jason Adams, president of Superior Industries.

In his new role as director of business development for construction management, Gavin will identify new business opportunities, nurture existing relationships, develop strategic plans, research industry trends, collaborate with the construction management team, and support project management and onsite tasks as needed.
