Duisburg, Germany -

The Lower Rhine CIC congratulated the company on its anniversary by presenting a certificate. Pictured f.l.t.r.: Horst Vohwinkel and Bruno Dautzenberg (both General Managers of Brabender Technologie), Dr. Stefan Dietzfelbinger (General Manager of the Lower Rhine Chamber of Industry and

Commerce), Sören Link (Mayor of Duisburg), Dr. Günter Kuhlmann Brabender Technologie).

As General Manager Bruno Dautzenberg puts it: “Given that we had to relocate last year during ongoing operations, we simply postponed our anniversary celebration by one year, because we wanted to celebrate it together with you.”

Demonstrations in the Technical Center

Guests were able to see the impact of filling problems up close during the course of three trials in the new Technical Center.

The new technical centre comprises both the epicentre of the 'K49' building, where bulk material feeding trials demonstrated the opportunities that the new facility provides. Thanks to the test lab second floor, filling and refilling processes can be simulated in addition to conducting feeding tests. Guests were able to see live what a negative impact small upstream conditions can have on the actual feeding process. “The topic of feeding sounds straightforward enough, but it is not as trivial as it looks and is seriously dependent on upstream processes”, Bruno Dautzenberg explains.

Satisfied Customers and Suppliers

Customers and partners expressed their satisfaction and showed their affinity with the company. One spontaneous answer to the question of what one would wish Brabender Technologie for the future was: “That they continue in business for at least as long as we do!” In Duisburg people are also proud of this long-established company. Duisburg’s mayor Sören Link says: “A global market leader, brand new, state-of-the-art corporate headquarters and personnel that you can always rely on – this is how you could describe Brabender – ready to face the future.”
