

Market News

BULK TERMINALS 2018: Improving Safety, streamlining Operations and ensuring Environmental Protection

Edited by on 28. Sep. 2018

Following the success of the first conference organized by the Association of Bulk Terminal Operators (ABTO) in London October 2017, ABTO is taking Bulk Terminals 2018 to Hamburg on October 23-24, 2018. To address the competing operational, safety and environmental pressures terminal managers face today, Bulk Terminals 2018 will bring together all those all those involved in the transportation, storage and handling of bulk commodities.

Suppliers and consultants will join Terminals from Russia, Europe, the Middle East and the Americas – including: Port of Vyborg • Ajwa Group • Redcar Bulk Terminal • Port of Gdynia • Port of Korsoer • Port of Hamburg • MTMG - Morski Terminal Masowy Gdynia • Logistec • CODELCO • Grupo Nogar • ABP Humber • Grimsby. Focusing on the concerns of bulk terminal operators the programme offers sound, practical solutions for improving safety, streamlining operations and ensuring environmental protection. Terminal Managers and Expert Speakers with Case Studies and Discussion panels will talk about:

- Market prospects
- Planning for the future
- Investment drivers
- Regulation

- Environment and sustainability
- Safety and training
- Operations
- Handling technologies
- Security and business continuity
- Marketing bulk terminal operations

To view the brochure click here!! Learning from the experts and your industry peers you will gain an understanding of the challenges the bulk terminal industry faces - and how to improve your efficiency and complianceTo book a delegate place please click here!!